

Vinculum Communications Introduces International Retail Agent Opportunity

San Diego, Aug. 25, 2005 – Vinculum Communications Inc., an innovator nurturing the growth of the VoIP market, today announced the introduction of its retail agent program to resell retail VoIP telephony long-distance services to international businesses across the globe. Leveraging its high-quality VoIP network infrastructure, which includes more than 800 international destinations and more than 150 partnerships with Tier 1 global providers, the service provides the opportunity for telephony sales agents and organizations to earn top commissions while delivering superior network quality to their book of business.

Vinculum will deploy its new, affordable telephony service on its 2,000-port Sansay soft gateway switch, which will be solely dedicated for the new retail platform. International businesses with a broadband subscription can quickly connect to Vinculum's network and immediately begin saving 50 percent or more over their current long-distance providers.

“By launching this new retail broadband telephony platform, Vinculum fulfills a quest to enhance revenue growth through diversification,” says Jayson Jones, senior vice president of retail sales for Vinculum. “Further, Vinculum's relationship approach and commission structure will be a lucrative proposition for strategic partners, master agents, network solutions providers and agents worldwide.”
